Dear Yahoo Hard Rock Café Collectors Members:

On behalf of the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Pennsylvania and Southern West Virginia, I want to thank you for hosting the Yahoo Hard Rock Café Collectors annual event which raised $1,317.00, and was received on September 18, 2009. All donations of $500 or more are listed on our website at www.wishgreaterpa.org. If you do not want to be listed, please contact us at 412-471-9474 or spugliese@wishworld.org. We are thrilled that your event was such a success.

I would like you to meet wish kid Zoe, a spunky seven-year-old and self-described princess. Zoe has an entire closet dedicated to dress-up clothes and shiny shoes for princess play. The theme of her most recent birthday party? Princesses, of course. Her Halloween costume? You guessed it. Her wish? A castle fit for a princess. So, the Make-A-Wish Foundation got to work on the custom creation of a two-story pink bedazzled playhouse complete with a tiara-shaped mailbox and a tower for drawing and daydreaming.

Much like the princesses of fairy tales, Zoe has had to tackle some daunting challenges. Though this pint-sized princess doesn't have to contend with dragons or wicked stepmothers, Zoe endures everyday battles with her life-threatening illness, which all too often require she substitute her princess dresses for hospital gowns. Her secret weapons are a beaming smile, loving subjects (her family and friends), her team of doctors and her princess tiara. Zoe wears her bejeweled headpiece during doctor appointments and hospital stays, citing its magical powers.

At the Make-A-Wish Foundation, we know a thing or two about magic. Like the magic of a wish, from idea to fulfillment, that your generous donation helps to create. Like the magic we witnessed as Princess Zoe entered her castle for the first time, tiara snugly in place, flashing her royal smile and leaving her worries at the door. She ran to the tower's top, opened the window, and continues to live her very own fairy tale.

Thank you for making wishes come true!

Best wishes,

Stephanie
